Reader Advisory: In order to avoid misunderstandings, some advertisers do not offer "employment" but rather supply the readers with manuals, directories and other materials designed to help their clients establish mail order selling and other businesses at home. Under NO circumstance should you send any money in advance or give the client your checking, license ID, or credit card numbers. Also beware of ads that claim to guarantee loans regardless of credit and note that if a credit repair company does business only over the phone it's illegal to request any money before delivering its service. All funds are based in US dollars. 800 numbers may or may not reach Canada.

CSU, Chico Presents Fall Choral Concert on Nov. 8

Chamber Singers will sing is the “Trois Chanson” series by French composer Claude Debussy. However, these same challenges have made the set a student favorite.

“This set of pieces is particularly difficult,” said Scholz. “Not only are they complex in rhythm, melody, and harmony, but the added challenge of singing in French has really stretched the members

The CSU, Chico choral ensembles will present their fall concert at 7:30 p.m. on Saturday, November 8 in Harlen Adams Theatre.

Titled “Choral Classics,” the concert will feature music from some of the most famous composers of choral music, both past and present. Music by Palestrina, Tallis, Bach, Handel, Mozart, Brahms, Debussy, Duruflé, Hassler, Pachelbel, Stanford, and Stroupe will be performed by the University Chorus, A Cappella Choir, and Chamber Singers.

The choirs will be presenting music from the 17th century through present day. According to Dr. David Scholz, Director of Choral and Vocal Activities at CSU, Chico, the variety of music featured will include some lighter fare, such as a jazzed-up version of “Pachelbel’s Canon,” sung by the Chamber Singers.

One of the more challenging pieces the

of the Chamber Singers.”

These same challenges, however, have made this concert one for the ages.

“Preparing the music for this concert has been a challenge for all of the choirs,” said Scholz. “It’s a bit problematic anytime a group has to learn so many different languages and sing in so many styles. But it’s also a great delight! I’m sure the audience will appreciate the variety of music they will hear.”

Advance tickets, at $15 adult, $13 senior citizens and $6 students/children, are available at the University Box Office located at the corner of Third and Chestnut Streets. Tickets are also available online or by phone, (530) 898-6333; additional $4 handling fee for phone and online ticket purchases. Add $2 for tickets purchased at the door. For special needs seating, please call (530) 898-6333.

Staffordshire Collection On Display At The Historic Lott Home In Oroville

An interesting collection of Staffordshire figures is currently on display in the Tandy Room of the Historic C.F. Lott Home in Oroville. Staffordshire figurines are one of the most common types of Victorian pottery seen on the Antiques Road Show program. Staffordshire figurines were made for over 200 years in the English county of the same name which is 150 miles from London. The Staffordshire figurines were made inexpensively and sold at reasonable prices to middle class buyers. Favorite pieces are those depicting animals, politicians and even buildings. The collection, which dates back to the Victorian period of the mid-and late 19th century is on loan from local resident and museum docent Ann Chamberlain and will be on display until December 12, 2014.

The figurines were all hand made and individually decorated in factories using "production line" methods. The flat-back figures, as they were known, were usually made without decoration on the back and modeling and painting were confined to the areas facing outward. Many of the pieces resemble a bud vase which was kept on the fireplace mantle filled with rolled paper or very thin wood sticks used to transfer fire from the fireplace to light candles, lamps or a gentleman's cigar.

The C.F. Lott Home, which is located in Sank Park at 1067 Montgomery Street is open for tour on Friday, Sunday and Mondays from 11:30 A.M. until 4:00 P.M. Additional information about the display or any of Oroville's fine museums may be obtained by calling the City of Oroville at (530) 538-2429 or visit the City website at www.cityoforoville.org.

School of the Arts to Present Fall Musical “As It Is in Heaven” in November

This fall, CSU, Chico's School of the Arts takes audiences back to a more humble time in American history and shows us that angels can be found in the simplest of places.

“As It Is in Heaven,” which will be staged Nov. 12–15 at 7:30 p.m., Nov. 16 at 2 p.m. and Nov. 18–19 at 7:30 p.m. in CSU, Chico's Wismer Theatre, weaves a tale about the characters' ever-changing relationships among one other, their prescribed faith and their experience of the divine.

Directed by Professor Cynthia Lammel, the musical tells the story of the ordinarily calm and ordered and often comic world of a Shaker village in Pleasant Hill, Kentucky, in 1838. When newcomer Fanny arrives and claims that she has seen angels in the meadow, other young women begin to receive spiritual gifts of songs, drawings, ideas and, to the consternation of the elders, giggles. As more young believers begin to question the elders of the village, the resulting upheaval threatens the prosperity and very identity of this utopian community.

“It is a beautiful play/musical based on the life, faith, songs, dances and beliefs of the Shakers in 1838,” Lammel said. “It is an exciting and, actually, very mysterious musical based in a time of spiritual upheaval in Shaker history. And, although the playwright Arlene Hutton worked with this particular period in Shaker life, she is very clearly speaking to a larger audience. I think she wishes to challenge us with her vision of how we come to terms with our own faith and still let others experience faith in a way unique to their own encounter with the divine.”

The cast of “As It Is in Heaven” is unlike any other that has graced the stage at CSU, Chico. There are a total of nine characters in the musical, all of whom are women. This detail was a significant factor in why Lammel chose the production for her students.

“I thought it would be a great opportunity for the women in our department to work not only on the beautiful music and dancing in this piece, but to work in a very tight-knit acting ensemble as well,” Lammel said. “Each of the women's roles is essential and integral to the action of the play. Often the women of our musical theatre program end up in the chorus and frequently do not have too many lines to speak or characters to develop. This is not to discredit our university — this pattern is sadly traditional in the American theatre! However, we wanted to provide an environment where we could educate our majors who happened to be women. This musical was different and we embraced it.”

Not only do the women act, sing and dance, but they also change each of the sets in the course of the 36 scenes in the musical, Lammel noted.

“There is no intermission, and the 90 minutes of the musical fly by!” she said.

Lammel and the cast have tried to stay as true as possible to the simple beauty that is typical of the Shaker aesthetic. All of the musical numbers in the play will be performed a capella, and no microphones will be used, creating a sound that is pure and natural. For the dance numbers, Lammel and choreographer Sheree Henning researched traditional Shaker dances in order to replicate them in an authentic manner.

Lammel hopes that audiences walk away from the musical with feelings of joy, healing and hope. She says the primary message of the production is that “we don't need to share the identical experiences of others to believe in the validity of others' experiences and value their truths.”

“We need to honor what has been given to us and honor what has been given to others, whether or not we understand those gifts,” she added.

Samantha Corbett, who plays one of the central characters, Hannah, has a similar message for audiences.

“I hope that the audience will see the equality and loving reverence that Shakers showed each other and that it might be applicable to how we handle our own relationships,” Corbett said.

“As It Is in Heaven” was written by actor-director Beth Lincks under the pseudonym Arlene Hutton. Hutton was inspired to write the musical after she visited the restored Shaker community of the Pleasant Hills Shaker Village in Harrodsburg, Kentucky. The title of the play is derived from a Shaker rendition of “Lord's Prayer” called “The Saviour's Universal Prayer (Our Father Who Art in Heaven).” Hutton has also written widely produced trilogies including such popular plays as “Last Train to Nibrock.”

“As It Is in Heaven” first premiered at the 78th Street Theatre Lab and soon after made its way to the Edinburgh Fringe Festival before finally landing at the Off-Broadway Arclight Theatre in New York City in 2002. Although the play ran for a relatively short time, it was well-received by critics. “The Herald” called it “a thought-provoking piece,” and “American Theatre Web” stated, “‘As It Is in Heaven’ contains a story that deserves to be told.”

“The play script is reliant on a strong concept by directors and designers and insists on a very confident and creative approach to staging, and therefore is perhaps not as widely produced as it deserves,” Lammel said. “We are deeply grateful that here at CSU, Chico we are able to produce such a work.”

Advance tickets, $15 for adults, $13 for senior citizens, and $6 for students and children, are available at the University Box Office at the corner of Third and Chestnut streets. Tickets are also available online or by phone at 530-898-6333; there is an additional $4 handling fee for phone and online ticket purchases. Add $2 for tickets purchased at the door. For special needs seating, please call 530-898-6333.

Paradise Cowboy Music & Poetry Gathering, November 15, 2014

The Fourth Annual, "Paradise Cowboy Music & Poetry Gathering" will be coming to the Paradise Performing Arts Center (PPAC) on Saturday November 15, 2014, doors open at 6:00 P.M. with curtain going up at 7:00 P.M. Tickets for this most entertaining event are only $15.00. This is a benefit concert for the Gold Nugget Museum.

The headliners are world famous Country Music Stars, Sourdough Slim, Robert Armstrong, and Cowboy Poet Waddie Mitchell who by themselves put on great shows, but together, they will bring the Ridge the most entertaining Cowboy evening since PPAC was opened. The show is being produced by Steve "Woody" Culleton, Town Councilman of Paradise.

Sourdough Slim is a hoot to say the least. The moment this award winning Western showman steps into the spotlight, it's apparent to everyone that they're in for a rollicking good time. Ten gallon funny-man Sourdough Slim transports us to a whimsical world where vaudevillian camp and cowboy lore intermingle to produce grins galore.

Sourdough Slim and Robert Armstrong are passionate about the music they play and culture from which it springs. Proud torch-bearers of America's rich roots music heritage, the two demonstrate their enthusiasm for this music with every song they perform.

Robert Armstrong, he's an artist and musician with a broad resume of really interesting creative accomplishments. In his youth, he was an underground comic artist and created the debauched and dissolute "Mick-e-y Rat" character. As a musician, he was a founding member of T/ Crumb's Cheap Suit Serenaders. He's recorded film scores—mostly notable, he plays the musical saw on the haunting Jack Nitzsche soundtrack to One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest.

Waddie Mitchell is an American cowboy poet. He often performs his poems with a guitarist playing in the background. Mitchell has made seven CDs including That No Quit Attitude. He was chosen to write a poem describing the West for the 2002 Winter Olympics' Olympic Arts Festival. He is a co-founder of the National Cowboy Poetry Gathering.

The $15.00 general admission tickets for this must see, night of Cowboy Entertainment, are on sale at the following businesses: Gold Nugget Museum; Post Net; PIP Printing; Paradise Cinema 7; Grocery Outlet; Paradise Chamber of Commerce; Jaki's Hilltop Café; Music Connection; and on line at www.paradisecowboygathering.com. For further information call the Gold Nugget Museum at 530-872-8722 or Woody at 530-521-1984.

California Swan Festival

Keynote Speaker: John Hendrickson
Saturday, November 8, 2014

Bonanza Inn & Suites Banquet Room
1001 Clark Ave., Yuba City CA 95991
6:00 - 8:30 pm $25.00 per person

We are very excited to introduce the world renown wildlife photographer, naturalist and author, John Hendrickson as our 2014 Keynote Speaker.

Our Saturday evening banquet will focus on Raptors of California. John has been studying and working with raptors since childhood. He received his Master's Degree in Field Biology after doing research on falcons in New Zealand, and has authored two books on this subject, Raptors and Hawks for Kids. His Saturday evening program will also feature many of his superb photographs.

Best known locally as "TP John" for all his years as Director and Naturalist at Woodleaf Outdoor School, John Hendrickson is a nationally recognized, award-winning nature photographer. In 2006 he was selected as one of the top twenty nature photographers in the world today. His superb work has been displayed in over sixty of America's major museums, from Boston to Miami, Seattle to San Diego, and most everywhere in between. In California alone his work has been featured in the San Francisco Academy of Sciences, Los Angeles Museum of Natural History, San Diego Museum of Natural History, and Oakland Museum of California.

Thousands of John's outstanding images have been published in books, calendars, posters, cards, and magazines around the world. His lengthy list of publishers includes such notables as National Geographic, Time-Life, Sierra Club, Newsweek, Audubon, National Wildlife, Nature Conservancy, Outdoor Photographer, and many more. He has written and illustrated several books including Raptors, Listening to Nature, Hawks for Kids, and Butterflies, Grace on the Wing.

John is an excellent speaker and has presented keynotes at birding festivals throughout America. His informative program at the Swan Festival will focus on his lifelong passion for RAPTORS and feature many of his well-known photos.

Spotlight

by: Morgan Williams

The holiday season is almost upon us again this year. A time when everyone sits down with family and friends and takes stock of the things that have taken place during the course of that year, while enjoying nature's bountiful good cheer. Taking stock of things that have been encountered, taking the time to appreciate the good and the bad and in the end, remembering to be thankful for the positive while appreciating the struggles, as they too are part of life which is altogether too short and shouldn't be taken for granted.

It is with this thought in mind that the next topic to be looked at is Veterans Day. A time to celebrate the men and women that make the courageous choice to be separated from their loved ones in the pursuit of safety and security for all, with the very real possibility of facing danger and uncertainty themselves. These individuals that have lives, hopes and dreams but often push them to the back burner, for the purpose of stepping outside of those lives and trying to do something better for not only their loved ones but also for mankind as a whole.

So, on this Veterans Day, make sure to stop and take a second when you encounter a veteran and acknowledge them. Such acknowledgment can be a handshake or even a thank you but with that, the acknowledgment can show the appreciation of a grateful community for those that try to protect it from dangers that may seem unknown but that are still present nonetheless. Especially during such times that are almost upon us, such as Thanksgiving and Christmas, the sacrifices made by the military community and their family members both past and present, act as even more of a reminder that very real people are at the helm of the decisions that are made that impact the security of all of us. So let this be the thank you to the men and women of the United States Armed Forces, both past and present, as well as their families, for the daily commitment they make to ensure that this country and its citizenry remain free and secure.

In the pursuit of maintaining a sense of patriotism for a few more seconds, November also means election time. Petty details and arguments aside, it is a time for everyone to go out and appreciate the rights and abilities that we are all afforded while living in a free country. The opportunity to vote for whomever, or whatever we choose, regardless of our race or ethnicity, etc is something to be appreciated and not taken for granted.
